Customer Reviews

I think it's great that even after all these books, this series still has the ability to surprise me! This series has always been full of twists and turns and this 10th installment was no exception. Based on where things left off in the last book I was pretty sure I had a good idea of the struggles that our crew of The Shade would face in this one, but instead the story took a hard right and went down a completely different path than I was expecting! In this book we get much more of Caleb and I am as intrigued as ever by his character and was glad to see more through his eyes, I missed him in the last book. We also get snippets of a few other characters that we haven't heard from in a while, so I really liked those updates and I liked the opportunities for future storylines that those snippets opened up. In the last book we saw how Kiev and Mona were woven back into the story and I think that integration was solidified further with the events in this book, we saw even more characters and places from that series come into play in this book. I think the author really did a great job of tying those books back into the overall storyline, it was seamless and cleverly done. If you read my other reviews on this series or the Kiev trilogy, it's no secret that I am not Mona's #1 fan but I actually found her to be likable in this book so maybe there's hope yet for her to win me over! Only time will tell. I have to say, there is one chain of events between Sofia, Derek and Kiev that when it was first presented I had to fight the urge to roll my eyes. It seemed a little cheesy and absurd, but when it played out, it actually was quite comical and I found myself laughing out loud at what was going on.
